

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

MARY GRAHAM BONNER

"This evening," said Daddy, "I am going to tell you about some of the birds we see in the winter and of their ways."

"In the first place, of course, there are the Evening Grosbeaks. Mr. Grosbeak wears a fine suit of golden brown with touches of white and golden and black."

"Mrs. Grosbeak wears much of the same kind of a costume, but her colors are a little paler."

"They whistle and shout and chatter and travel about looking for food."

"Then there are the Pine Grosbeaks. Mr. Pine Grosbeak wears a gorgeous rose-colored suit, while Mrs. Pine Grosbeak dresses simply in a gray and yellow frock."

"They dearly love seeds and they come around every winter, looking for seeds in the pine woods. This has given them the name of Pine Grosbeaks."

"They're brave and they're cheery and they warble and call and sing ever so prettily."

"They love to be fed and will become very tame. They are particularly fond of the seeds of fruits such as sunnich and of grain."

"The Pine Grosbeaks are more usual than the others, but they both have ways that are much alike."

"You can't mistake Mr. Pine Grosbeak by his gay suit which isn't at all like a dull winter garment such as some of the creatures wear."

"Then there are the Blue Jays who come around, too. They are rather naughty birds, and chase squirrels and bully younger birds, but they are not even afraid of the eagle, and of course the eagle is a much bigger bird."

"They love acorns and nuts and will put some away for a hard time, for they believe in saving for a rainy day."

"Not that the Blue Jays mind rainy days. They don't mind any kind of weather."

"They never grumble about the weather. But you know there is an expression about laying something aside for a rainy day."

"It means that one is saving something for the time when good things will be scarce. Blue Jays do it. Those who put some of their money in savings banks do it, too."

"Then there are the nice Snowflake birds. They can easily be told by the amount of white feathers they wear."

"They come along, too, with the snowflakes and eat seeds which they say they always find have fallen from weed stalks in the late fall."

"They travel in large numbers. Their nests are of soft grass and moss—truly lovely nests, but they are only with us during the winter months."

"There are the Pine Finches, too, sometimes known as the Siskin family."

"They are very much like the Goldfinch family in their ways and in their song and in their call. And they look like the Goldfinch family, too, for in the winter time Mr. Goldfinch doesn't wear his bright gay suit which he wears when the summer is here."

"They love to eat seeds and buds. The Redpolls are something like the Goldfinches, too, in their ways, and the Redpolls are winter birds."

"They love to eat seeds which they, too, gather from old weeds."

"Mr. Redpoll wears a handsome rose-colored waistcoat and a beautiful greenish coat. Mrs. Redpoll doesn't have the rose-colored waistcoat part of the costume."

"And I'm telling you what the different winter birds like to eat. I think it is nice to have seeds and crumbs and suet about in the winter time. The suet can be put out of reach of cats and so fixed that the snow won't easily cover it up though, of course, the snow can be taken off when it has done that."

"Yes, Daddy, we'll take the hint," said Nick. "We're going to have food for the birds this winter and hope that many will come to visit us," added Nancy."

All Sorts of Corpses.

Donald had been reading a book which contained many war terms. He supposed the word "corps" was pronounced phonetically. He had made a number of paper airplanes, which he displayed proudly to his mother and said: "This is to be the flying corps of the army. Then I'm going to have reserve corps and land corps besides. You know an army has to have all sorts of corpses!"

FOR THE TABLE

In using bread crumbs for escalloped dishes, season well with salt and pepper and add to a small quantity of melted butter; stir until well mixed. Currants, the dried variety, may be well cleaned by rubbing them well in flour, which will remove any grit, then wash and dry in a collander and they will be ready for use.

One of the most wholesome of breakfast foods is wheat right from the granary. Soak over night, then cook slowly on the back of the stove until the wheat is a gelatinous mass. Serve with top milk.

Green Soup.—Wash two quarts of spinach in several waters. Wash, peel and chop fine three small turnips, two onions, a bunch of celery and a bunch of parsley. Fry the vegetables in four tablespoonfuls of butter, add a pint of water and simmer until tender. Mix two tablespoonfuls of flour with a little milk, add it to one and one-half pints of milk, and boil five minutes. Put all the vegetables through a sieve, then add the hot milk and serve with croutons.

Tuna Fish Salad.—Take one cupful of tuna fish, shredded, three-fourths of a cupful of boiled salad dressing, one-half cupful of chopped celery, one-half envelope of gelatin, one-fourth cupful of water, one chopped green pepper, one-half teaspoonful of salt, and one-fourth of a teaspoonful of paprika. Soak the gelatin in the water five minutes, then add it with all the other ingredients to the hot salad dressing. Turn into individual molds dipped in cold water and chill. Turn out on crisp lettuce and serve.

Southern Golden Fleece.—Cut up and melt in a saucepan one-half pound of rich cheese; when soft add one cupful of cream and a dash of cayenne; when thoroughly blended, break in five fresh eggs, cover for two minutes; when the white is set, remove the cover, add a little salt and beat the mass briskly with a spoon for a few minutes. It will rise in a yellow foam, tender and delicious. Serve on buttered toasted milk crackers.

Knighting the Roast of Beef.

Hoghton tower, near Preston, England, is one of the three places which claim to be the scene of the knighting by James I, in merry mood, of the loin of beef. In the hall of this mansion is a table with a brass plate stating that James I, on coming in very hungry after hunting in the adjoining forest, found the beef so appetizing that he knighted it in appreciation, while the banqueting hall at Hoghton tower contains the old oak table at which James sat when he knighted the steaks, so the visitor there is told.

Sea, Rain and Rivers.

From recent data, calculations have been made of the amount of rain annually falling upon the earth's surface. It is found that it is equivalent to a layer of water of the uniform depth, for the whole globe, of about 35 1/4 inches. The amount falling on the land is equivalent to a uniform depth of 20 1/4 inches. Considering only the land which is drained by rivers flowing into the sea, it is calculated that only 30 per cent is returned to the ocean, and that the rest is removed by evaporation.

EMPLOYMENT STILL ON GAIN

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Albany, Jan. 13.—Employment in the manufacturing industries of New York state continues to increase. The gain from November to December was 1 per cent. The total gain since December of last year amounts to 15 per cent. This statement was issued today by Henry D. Sayer, the industrial commissioner of the labor department, and is based on reports from manufacturers taken from their actual payroll records.

The net increase in the number of workers between November and December in the state as a whole was about 15,000. About 27,000 employees were added to the payrolls, mostly in the metal trades, the wood manufacturing industries, the shoe factories, the printing establishments and the silk mills. At the same time about 12,000 employees were released. The industries in which the largest number of workers was dropped were the women's apparel shops, the canneries, the candy factories, the biscuit factories and the brick yards. In most cases these reductions were seasonal and therefore temporary. But in some industries, as in the canneries, candy factories and fur establishments, the resumption of full activity will not take place before next summer or fall. These facts are of importance in connection with the statements about a labor shortage. It is not possible to transfer workers who are no longer needed in the garment industries, to relieve a shortage of common labor in the metal trades, but not all the changes are so extreme as that. Even in a time of steadily rising employment, however, many workers are subject to seasonal unemployment. The number of workers in the manufacturing industries of New York state is still over 200,000 less than the number employed at the peak of activity in March, 1920.

Y., $174,432.50. Ward & Tully, Inc., Brooklyn, N. Y., $180,720.00. The road to be improved is five and a half miles long and the estimated cost of the improvement as fixed by the highway department engineers was $183,395.

GROWING TEETH FOR AUTO LAWS

Proposals at Albany Include Punishment for Careless Pedestrians—Tax Commission Sure to Lose Auto Bureau.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Albany, Jan. 13.—Because of the constantly increasing number of persons killed each year in New York state by automobiles, legislation to put some "teeth" in the law, and make both motorists and pedestrians more careful is expected to be introduced at the present session of the state legislature.

Recognizing that it is not always the fault of the man at the wheel, persons interested in legislation to check the present situation say one of the first things to be done is to make pedestrians watch the signals of traffic officers particularly in up-state cities. Hundreds of accidents are caused each year, and many times persons are killed, because they pay no attention to the traffic officer, and walk directly in front of a machine.

Traffic officers now have the right to arrest the driver of any machine who fails to obey traffic signals. There are those who say the traffic officer should be clothed with the same power so he could arrest persons who aimlessly start to cross a street intersection, regardless of which way traffic may be moving at that particular moment. Persons who have made a close study of the subject assert the number of automobile accidents in up-state cities would be greatly reduced if the pedestrian would pay more attention to the traffic officers.

The present situation throughout the state has not escaped the attention of Governor Smith. The governor believes the situation is largely due to the lack of centralized control by the state. He has directed an investigation be made into the subject and has arranged for conferences with officials of the New York State Automobile Association and other motor organizations.

The State Automobile Association favors not only a state-wide licensing of all motorists, after passing an examination, but the creation of a separate motor vehicle bureau, charged with the enforcement of all motor vehicle and traffic laws. It is contended that because of the present division of authority no one is directly responsible, with the result that little if any attention is paid to the motor vehicle laws by the average auto operator.

At present the automobile bureau is under the jurisdiction of the state tax commission, but it could not be surprising if Governor Smith made it into a separate and distinct state bureau or department after he has made a careful study of the situation. There is no doubt that such a department, if created, would have greatly increased powers over the present bureau.

Even if the governor does not recommend legislation providing for a separate automobile bureau, it is said he is determined to remove it from the tax commission and place it back in the secretary of state's office where it was before the Miller administration. With the constantly increasing number of automobiles, it is expected in time this bureau will be by far the most important of all state departments.

DOWNER PICTURED AS AMERICAN GANG BOSS

A former Kingston girl, now residing in Stockton, California, has sent a copy of the Pictorial Section of the San Francisco Chronicle to The Freeman. In this paper there is a picture of Armenian refugees in Alexandropol repairing the streets of the city with Kenneth Downer of Kingston, New York, as gang boss. Downer is a son of Dr. Downer of Woodstock and has been in Europe for a number of years and as the picture implies he is now engaged in Armenian relief work. Before leaving for Europe Downer was a student in Kingston High School and a member of the debating team of the school.

The girl sending the picture states, "Just of the name of Kingston, N. Y., looks mighty good to a former Kingston girl who is so far away from home."

The paper was mailed from Stockton on January 8 and reached Kingston on January 13.

Transferring Correspondence

The usefulness of correspondence lessens with its age—reference to it decreases gradually as it becomes older. Obviously the best transferring system retires the correspondence gradually.

Suppose your Upright Steel Filing Cabinets will contain just one year's correspondence, file the second year's in a duplicate set of Globe-Wernicke cabinets labeled the same as the first; the third year transfer the first year's letters from the Upright Cabinets to Globe-Wernicke Steel Transfer Cases, as shown. Then, the Upright Cabinets or Active Files you have emptied are ready for the current year's correspondence.

Thereafter each year you transfer the year-old correspondence from cabinets to transfer cases and maintain in your cabinets letters covering the current year and the year previous.

In transferring, all letters from each cabinet file are put in one transfer case, maintaining the same alphabetical arrangement.

BOYS' BANQUET AT "Y" MONDAY

There will be a banquet for all the members of the Boys' Department of the local Y. M. C. A. in their rooms on Monday night, January 15, at six o'clock.

The boys are looking forward with interest in this get together and the good time that is bound to occur. It is the beginning of the financial campaign that the boys are making in the interest of the "Other Fellows."

The supper is being provided by the auxiliary of the association under the direction of Mrs. Longyear and Mrs. Warner. This means that there will be "copious eats" to use the terms of the members.

Mr. Hall, the local boys' secretary, wishes to call the attention of the parents to the fact, that while this banquet is held upon a school night the boys will not be detained late and every boy should be able to be home by eight o'clock. This is in keeping with the policy of the department not to conflict in any way with the demand of school and home duties.

It is to be hoped that of the approximate 200 members in the department a very substantial number are going to sign up for the banquet before Saturday night. It is absolutely necessary that the ladies in charge know the exact number that are planning to attend so that ample supplies may be purchased.

UPSHAW'S EVIDENCE BEING INVESTIGATED

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Washington, Jan. 13.—Names of some of the capital's most prominent bootleggers, together with a list of their patrons, constitute part of the evidence Representative William D. Upshaw, Democrat, of Georgia, has turned over to the prohibition bureau in substantiation of his charges that there is too much drinking on the part of "high officials of the government and members of congress," it was learned today.

Upshaw declined to make public his evidence, but said if it were made public, "it would drop like a bombshell upon official Washington, and strike in high places."

Neither would the prohibition bureau make public any of the evidence submitted by the Georgia congressman.

It will be investigated, officials of the bureau said.

Prohibition Commissioner Haynes had a long conference with President Harding last night. Whether this conference had to do with the Upshaw charges, he declined to say.

HOLY SPIRIT WOMAN'S GUILD ANNUAL MEETING

R. Anderson; vice-president, Mrs. C. W. Mackey; secretary, Mrs. R. E. Marthis; treasurer, Mrs. Florence A. Johnston. The treasurer's report showed a very successful year in the raising of funds for the work of the parish. Plans were made at the meeting for the work of the coming year.

Mrs. Rice Wants Seal Reports.
Mrs. G. F. Rice, president of the Federation of Women's Clubs, is practically ready to make her counting of the city tuberculosis seal sale next week. She is being held back by only two or three workers who have not yet turned in their reports and asks that they be sent to her at once, so that the Federation may close its account with the tuberculosis seal committee of the Ulster county committee on the prevention of tuberculosis.

JOE COFFEY FIGHTS TUESDAY

Meets Schelpon, New Yorker, At Albany Show Preliminary When Vince Meets Droney.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Albany, Jan. 13.—Vince Coffey's younger brother will be introduced to the fans of this vicinity next Tuesday night in the six round preliminary to the main bout in which Vince himself faces Tim Droney, the Lancaster, (Pa.) Irishman. Joe Coffey is the name of the youngest member of the fighting Coffey family, and reports from Kingston have it that Joe is some pumpkin as a welterweight. He will clash with Jack Schelpon, a tough New York boy, in the second bout on the card. Vince is training his younger brother for this fight and it is said that Joe is in great shape.

The youngster is no newcomer to the fight game although to many Albatians his entry is somewhat of a surprise. Joe has fought many tough boys in Kingston and Poughkeepsie and cities along the Hudson river for a few years. He has not fought steady enough to break into the big time like his older brother and then Vince has several years of experience on Joe. The Coffey-Schelpon fight will make a dandy battle, as it is said that Joe is a fighter from his head to his heels with a punch every bit as good as Vince's.

As Joe is whipping himself into shape, so also is Vince getting down to his right weight. The boys train in the K of C gym in Kingston and a crowd watches them there daily. Vince, who was a bit overweight when he fought Cross here will probably scale at 147 pounds when he fights Droney here. While Droney's manager did not stipulate weights in the contract, it is expected that the Lancaster Irishman will weigh at least four pounds less than that mark. Coffey is hitting better than ever, he says, and will be trying for a knock-out over Droney all the time next Tuesday night. If he should succeed in this, he will have achieved something which Benny Leonard, Lew Tendler, Soldier Barfield, Phil Bloom, Clonnie Tait, Pete Hartley, Knockout Chaney, Johnny Ray, Johnny Gill or 50 other fighters could not do. None of them have ever put Droney to sleep, and his record will stand against that of any lightweight in the business.

The semi final of ten rounds between Pete Williams, a natty little battler who showed here before, and Murray Soren, should be a hummer.

WILLARD GETS BIG RECEPTION FROM FANS

By Telegram to The Freeman.

New York, Jan. 13.—Of the heavyweight contenders introduced from the ring before the Johnson-Brennan bout last night, the reception accorded Jess Willard was by long odds the most enthusiastic and spontaneous. Harry Wills, the negro, was presented first. He received a scattering of applause.

Next came Tom Gibbons, but whatever greeting he received was drowned out by the demands for Willard.

Jess finally eased his great bulk through the ropes and the acclaim was almost an ovation, lasting several minutes. In addition to Willard, two other ex-champions of the heavyweight division were present, Jim Corbett and Jack Johnson.

Rickard Makes Offer.

New York, Jan. 13.—Tex Rickard announced today that he expected Jack Dempsey to accept an offer he had advanced for a bout with Jess Willard.

Not So Dutiful.

"Where will Mrs. Dollis go now that both her daughters are married? To her son-in-law's house in Chicago or to her son-in-law in New York?" asked the man on the train. "One wants her in Chicago and the other wishes she would go to New York," replied his friend. "What dutiful sons-in-law," remarked the other man. "I beg your pardon," said the first man. "The one in Chicago wishes her to go to New York, and the New York man wishes her to stay in Chicago."

JOHNSON NOT GOOD ENOUGH YET

Best Brennan, Overweight and Ill Conditioned But Shows He's Not in Dempsey's Class Or Even Gibbons's

By Davis J. Walsh.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

New York, Jan. 13.—The unseemly noise that awakened the respectable element in the community from its God-fearing sleep last night, was the terrific "pop" of one of Tex Rickard's multi-colored bubbles bursting right in the face of the cash customers.

Floyd Johnson, two handed Iowa, won a bruising fifteen-round decision over Bill Brennan upon the occasion, but the promised bout with Dempsey is like the promised land—a long way off. The bubble is burst and Mr. Rickard must blow a new one at least as far as the present emergency is concerned.

Johnson proved he was a better man than an ill-conditioned Brennan, ten pounds overweight and fighting on his nerve after the sixth round, whatever else he proved, however, was not to his credit.

It had been planned to have Johnson mount the Latin countenance of Luis Firpo to a bout with Tom Gibbons and thence on to Willard and Dempsey, but that program ran into an open switch and piled up with great disorder last night.

Johnson showed such unfamiliarity with the accepted tenets of the Marquis of Queensberry's favorite pastime, that it is now a matter of doubt as to whether he could acquire this knowledge in sufficient quantities to stand off a rough citizen like Firpo by the March date suggested for the bout. Gibbons, of course, would cut him to bits. As for Johnson and Dempsey, the thing is impossible and will be for the next couple of years.

The Iowa is as open as Clancy's side door, for a right cross, and a good, rugged fighter will tear him apart.

These were his only apparent faults last night but they were enough to preclude any possibility of Johnson going anywhere in particular in the heavyweight series. He is a very promising prospect, no more, fast, willing, game, tough and a great lefthanded puncher. It is noteworthy however, that he used his right with better effect on Brennan than he had done against other opponents and at least three times during the fifteen rounds, had Bill in a very precarious way.

The latter was bleeding from the nose and cuts over both eyes at the end and his body was painted a tender salmon pink from the punches landed down below, but his wise old head still clear and any chance Johnson, may have had to score a knockout, was bluffed out of his mind by Bill's show of assumed strength when hurt. Brennan seems to have passed his first zenith, however.

In the second, third, fifth and sixth rounds, he ripped terrific right hand punches to Johnson's body and the agony that momentarily appeared in the Iowa's eyes when these punches landed, showed how badly he was hurt. At the end of the sixth round, he seemed doomed to defeat, but Brennan had burned himself out and slowed down to a walk in the subsequent rounds.

Johnson, younger, fresher and trained to the minute, carried the fight to the veteran from that point on and his victory was clean-cut if not actually convincing.

"Traveler's Tree" Largely Myth.

Among the romantic stories of far-off lands that have long maintained their circulation and commanded more or less belief is that of the "traveler's tree," credited with possessing a reservoir of pure water fitted to save the lives of wanderers in the desert. An American scientist declares, from his own experience, that the tree grows only in the neighborhood of swamps and springs, and that, although it has a considerable amount of water in a hollow at the base of its leaf, the water possesses a disagreeable vegetable taste and; of course, is inferior to other water found in the vicinity.

Most Thoughtful Man.

The most thoughtful man proved his right to the title recently when he sent a copy of a lengthy book to a youngster who was a patient in a hospital for contagious diseases. The youngster was to leave the hospital soon and was disappointed when she learned she could not take the book, the reading of which she had not completed. After arriving at home the youngster found a duplicate copy of the book, inscribed as the first one had been by the same man who had anticipated the disappointment of the child.—New York Sun.

When Speculation is Unprofitable.

The intellectual failure of the Greek was his inability to see the point at which philosophic speculation so far outruns facts as to become unprofitable. That his speculations on the evolution of life and on the atomic nature of matter are in line with the facts established by modern science is not mere coincidence. It is rather the insight of master minds groping toward the truth without sufficient factual knowledge.—From "Science and Human Affairs."

Meadow Lark Useful Bird.

The meadow lark is a familiar bird of grassland throughout the United States. Unlike our eastern meadows, western prairies and southern savannas, its clear pipe as sweet and clean as silver, may be heard in spring, announcing the return of the season of procreation and growth. More than half of the lark's food consists of harmful insects. Its vegetable food is composed of either noxious weeds or waste grain, and the remainder is made up of useful beetles or neutral insects.

He is the redemption agent for national bank notes, federal reserve bank notes and federal reserve notes; is trustee for bonds held to secure national bank circulation and public deposits in national banks, and bonds held to secure postal savings in banks; is custodian of miscellaneous trust funds; is fiscal agent for paying interest on the public debt and for paying the land-purchase bonds of the Philippine Islands, principal and interest; is treasurer of the board of trustees of the postal savings system; and is ex-officio commissioner of the sinking fund of the District of Columbia. The office is filled by presidential appointment.

Egotistical Man.

In "God's Country," by J. O. Curwood, the author, who in early life was a big game hunter, writes: "I wish that some mighty power would rise that could show to man how little and how insignificant he is. Only therein, I think, could the thorns and brambles be taken out of that path to peace and contentment which he would like to find, and would find if he were not blinded by his own importance. He is the supreme egoist and monopolist. His conceit and self-sufficiency are at times almost blasphemous. He is the human peacock."

Diligence.

If men from their youth were weaned from that sauntering humor, wherein some, out of custom, let a good part of their life run uselessly away, without either business or recreation, they would find time enough to acquire dexterity and skill in hundreds of things, which, though remote from their proper callings, would not at all interfere with them.—Locke.
